"When you finally see the bird, you've been seeking, you know you've done the thing your soul needs." As a wife and mother, Karen McBride wonders if she'll ever discover what her own spirit requires to feel whole. When her father, the formidable champion bird-watcher, Martin Engel, suffers a stroke, Karen rushes home to Texas to take care of the man who always seemed to have more love for winged creatures than his own family. And now here she is -- her children nearly grown, and her rock-of-a-husband, Tom, angry with her for not giving more of herself.

She has the feeling that if she could only connect with Martin, somehow her relationships would all make sense. Is this her last chance to soar free?
