At age fifteen, Kizzie Bartholomew meets the man responsible for her father's death. Only thing is, he died in the same car crash that turned Kizzie's world upside down. Kizzie spends the next ten years fighting a fear of insanity as visitors from the other side beg for her help in delivering messages to their loved ones. Kizzie's dual life begins—designer by day, messenger by night. With her best friend's help, and a home man's unexpected friendship, Kizzie begins to accept her extraordinary talent only to discover she is not alone in getting requests from those who have left this world for another. Slowly, Kizzie and her friends begin to unravel the mystery of the visitors even as a different form of communication is revealed—one that terrifies Kizzie to her very core.
