What happens when living a life of luxury comes at a price you can only pay for with your life? Jade has been trapping for her boyfriend Sean, since she was sixteen years old. The love she once had for him was vibrant and exciting, but over the years, it faded due to Sean's lack of respect towards her. He use to spoil Jade, take her on vacations, and buy her anything she wanted, but his own insecurities and narcissistic tendencies got the best of him. Thus, Sean is a controlling boyfriend keeping Jade firm in his grip. Now twenty-two years old, Jade comes across a man named Red, while Sean is in jail. Red starts to give her the love she needs and it shows Jade she doesn't have to deal with Sean. Although, that leaves Jade to choose between the life of living in hell with a man that provides for her and her family or true happiness from someone else that is willing to show her how to be loved. Fed up with the lies, heartaches, infidelity, and abuse, Jade builds up enough courage to confront Sean and leave him for good. However, no matter how Jade feels, she will always be Sean's. And her only way of escaping him is death. So, is Jade willing to die for love?
